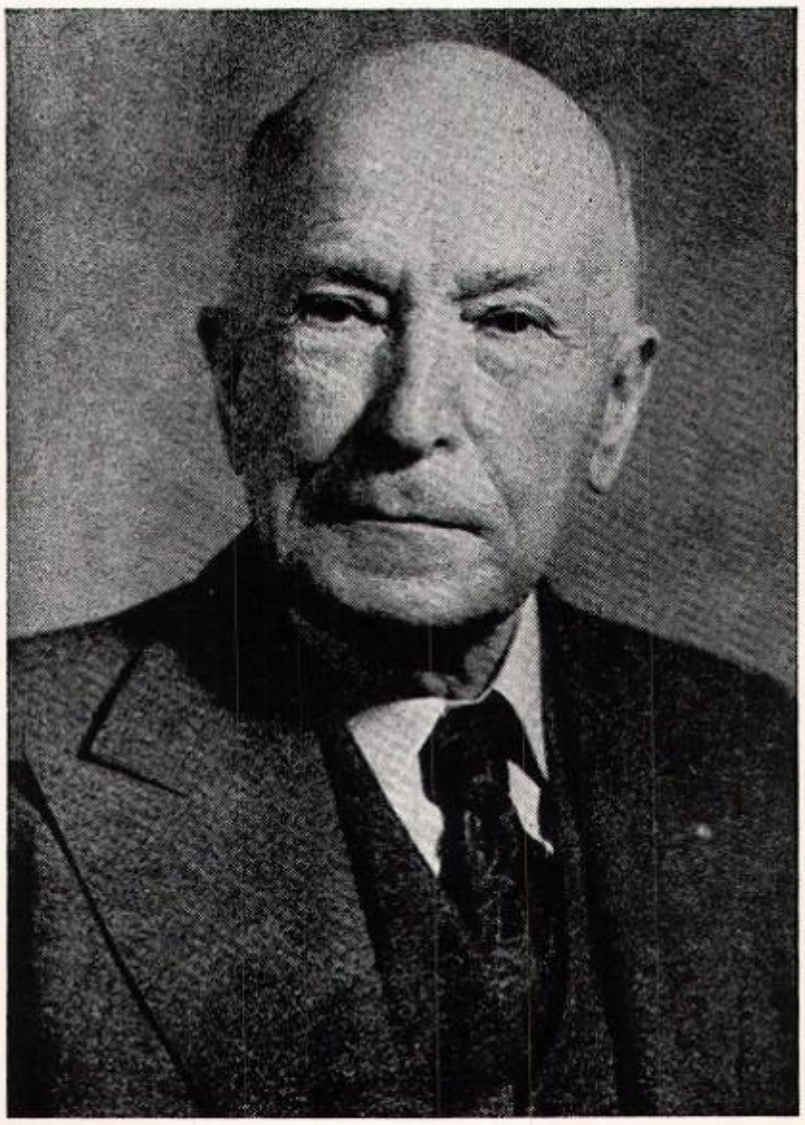
FOREWORD

What possible connection, the reader of this annual may ask, can there be between Mother Goose and a yearbook? Well, just as a misinterpretation of the purpose of nursery rhymes oftentimes exists, so, too, a misunderstanding of the purpose of school life is easily formed. The tiny tot, contented with the joy he derives from his nursery rhymes, overlooks their real meanings while the student overwhelmed by the pleasures found in school life, never seeks to uncover its underlying principles. Actually, however, both the rhyming jingle and the educational curriculum contain serious aspects which, although often unconsciously slighted, are capable of presenting to the person in a receptive mood morals and ideals for building a full, enjoyable existence. In addition, nursery tunes are the primary step in laying a solid foundation in youthful minds. Later, academic life serves as the formative process for teaching those same minds to put these fundamentals to work. So, in this, the 1949 edition of "Scope", Press Club will attempt to disclose the subtle meanings of Mother Goose rhymes just as it seeks to reveal the hidden phases of daily living in RHCS!



To Mr. Irving H. Seabury, the staff dedicates the 1949 SCOPE in acknowledgment of his faithful service to youth. Long ago this man who had resolved to serve young people realized that his greatest assistance lay in furthering their educational facilities. To work actively for this ideal, Mr. Seabury accepted the position of trustee of a district school in the town of Galway and later became a member of the board of education at Ballston Lake. Upon his arrival in Gasport his experience and interest in education were soon made manifest and he was elected to the board there. When centralization was suggested, Mr. Seabury, aware of its many advantages, championed the cause. Knowledge gained previously at Ballston Lake, one of the earliest central school district, served him well so that other of the project's leaders relied upon him for counsel. Naturally Mr. Seabury was a logical choice for the newly formed RHCS board. Election to this position in 1944 enabled him to become the first member to complete a full five year term. For about twenty years, then, Mr. Seabury has given of himself – his time – his energy – for young people. Because of his untiring, unceasing efforts on their behalf, RHCS students owe him a debt they can never repay. As a small gesture, however, to show their awareness to and appreciation of his accomplishments for them, the staff dedicates this annual to Irving H. Seabury, a friend of youth.

GOOD PEOPLE ALL

"Good people all of every sort" are the faculty of Royalton-Hartland Central School, "good people" bound together by an organization called the "Teachers' Association." At its head is Mrs. Nellie Printup, assisted by Mrs. Betty Bridge as vice-president, Miss Anna Benington as secretary, and Miss Mary Mack as treasurer.

"Good people" always manage to enjoy themselves. Despite their many duties and activities faculty members of RHCS proved to be no exception to this maxim. First of all they ushered in the school year with a "get acquainted" picnic at Huntington Beach. Christmas and its gala festivities were observed at a banquet at the Lox Plaza Hotel in Lockport. To complete their social calendar members of the Teachers' Association held another banquet in June. When "good people" come together, they not only find harmony in entertainment but also in work. The result of this spirit of co-operation in carrying out duties and activities assigned to the teaching staff has been splendid for the organization participated wholeheartedly in the Red Cross Drive, the March of Dimes, and the sending of CARE packages to Europe.

"Then soon there came to light" the fact that the students actually owe much to their instructors for the earnestness and interest they have taken in the students as individuals. "A kind and gentle heart" the faculty possesses so a special vote of thanks from the student body goes out to all the teachers of RHCS.

THERE'S A NEAT LITTLE CLOCK

President - - - - - - CAROL MANN

Vice-President - - - - - WESLEY WALKER

Adviser - - - - - - MR. MCCARTY

"There's a neat little clock in the schoolroom" and, just as you'd expect, each senior keeps his eyes glued upon its face "as it stands and points to the time with its two little hands." True, the seniors watch closely, but not eagerly, the days ticking by . . . . . for it is with mingled anxiety and sadness that the clock on the classroom wall warns them that soon their days in RHCS will come to an end.

As time rolls on and graduation approaches, every member of this class feels confident that his school has given him precious gems of knowledge which will, in due time, enable him to make his mark in the world in his own way. With the peace to be won and the spirit of democracy to be safeguarded, every person graduating in 1949 has a duty before him which his high school education will help him to face.

Yes, the seniors of '48-'49 know full well how rapidly the days can speed past. They realize that time is a valuable gift, one to be used wisely. Why, it seems only yesterday that they were entering RHCS for the first time; now they are soon to be graduated. But, when they are old and once again find themselves watching the "neat little clock" recording time with its "two little hands," may they point proudly to the accomplishments their education enabled them to make.

AS WE WERE GOING ALONG, LONG, LONG

Secretary - - - - - - - ETHEL EICK

Treasurer - - - - - - WILLIAM MURPHY

"As we were going along, long, long" our high school path, we recorded many precious memories. We began the first of four memorable years in RHCS under the guidance of Mr. Kane. Having launched our career selling Christmas cards, we proceeded to make the "Sophomore Salmagundi" a success. During this year we also found that in our midst we had a talented dramatic group which presented two hilarious assembly plays.

"The lane that we went was long, long, long" but soon we were "jolly juniors". Upon discovering that our treasury was low, we decided the time had come to work earnestly to make "Tiger House" a tremendous success. "And the song that we sang was long, long, long" as we danced to Jack Gailor's music at the Farewell Ball. Soon, though, with the aid of Miss St. John, we were promoted to the senior homeroom.

The senior year, stepping stone to graduation, brought with it many projects. First was the magazine drive, during which our ambitious group worked diligently to accomplish our goal. Then there were the two nights of our play, "The Inner Willy" which provoked laugh after laugh from its audiences. As Christmas neared, so did the Senior Ball at which we danced to the strains of Harold Suzanne and his orchestra. At this time the seniors were looking forward to the long anticipated trip to New York. So, under the guidance of Mr. McCarty, "we went singing along" to graduation.

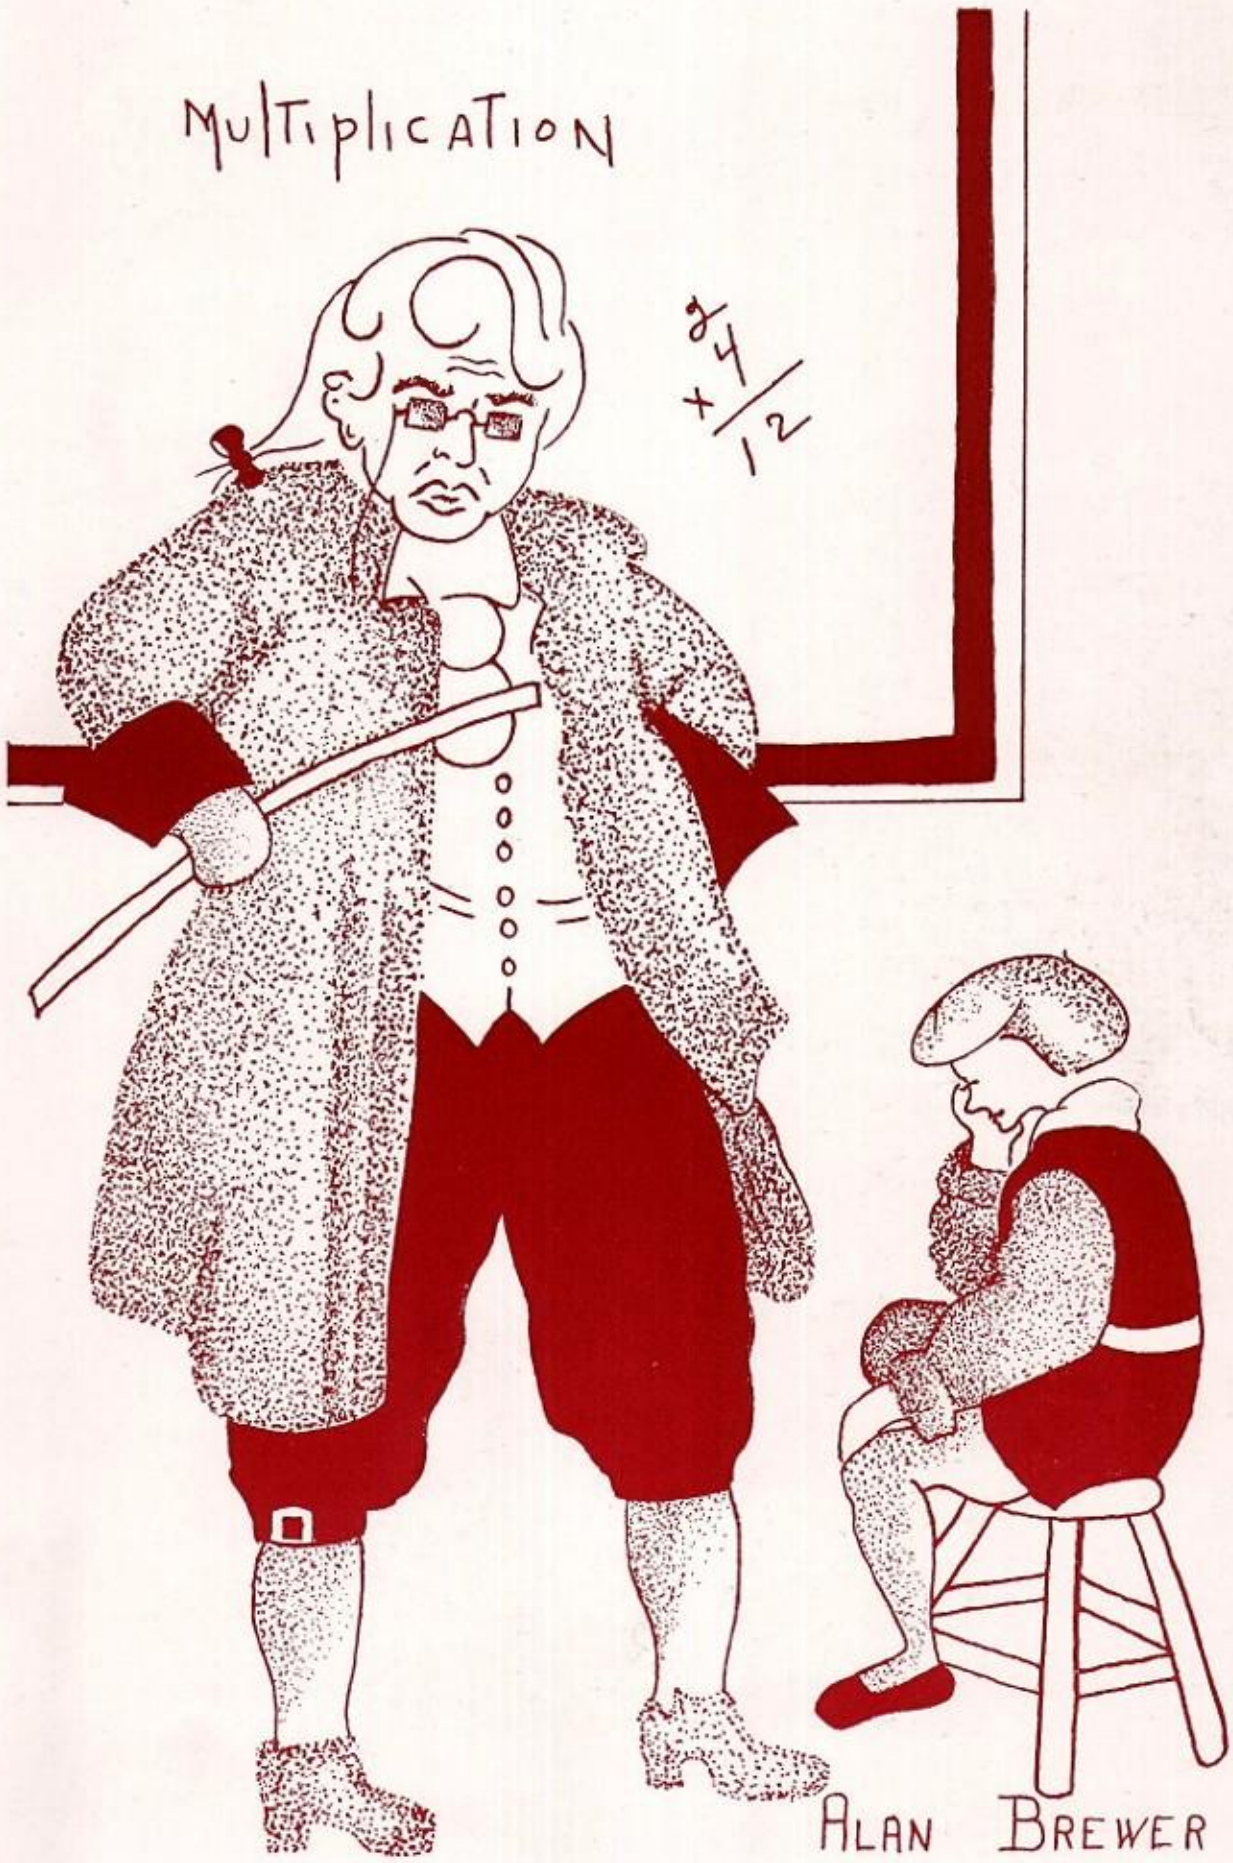
Multiplication Is Vexation

. . . . but, this, the most important phase of school life, prepares the student for prevention of further vexation in his life to come!



Every day at nine a. m. and three p. m. announcements are carried to each classroom via the loud-speaker system.

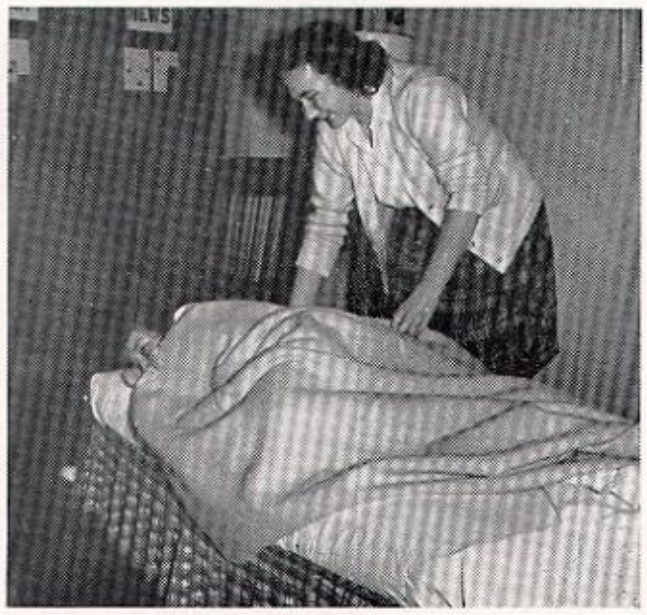
After having been absent from school, a child must obtain a make-up slip from the office before attending classes.

Mrs. Vollmer, vocational guidance counselor, advises and makes suggestions to senior high school girls concerning present and future plans.

First Aid is administered by Mrs. Mahar, the school nurse, to any student having need of immediate medical attention.

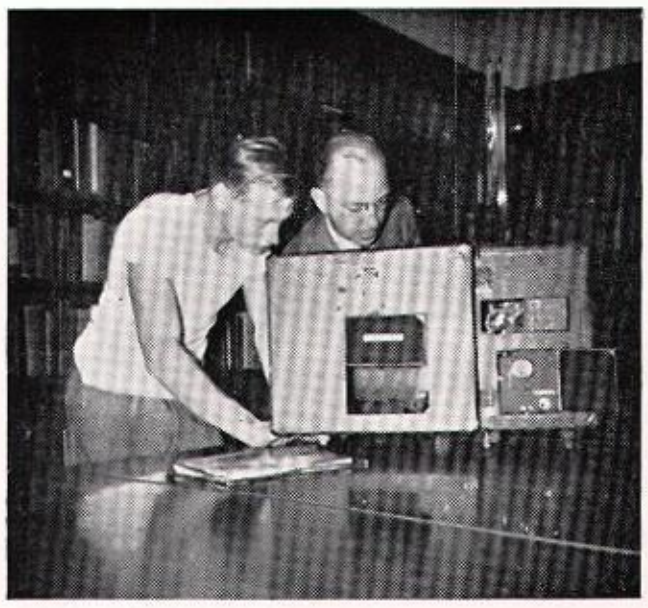
Students ponder diligently over their work in study hall in preparation for the classes which are soon to follow.

Some of the more scientific students eagerly make one of their numerous experiments in Mr. White's physics lab period.

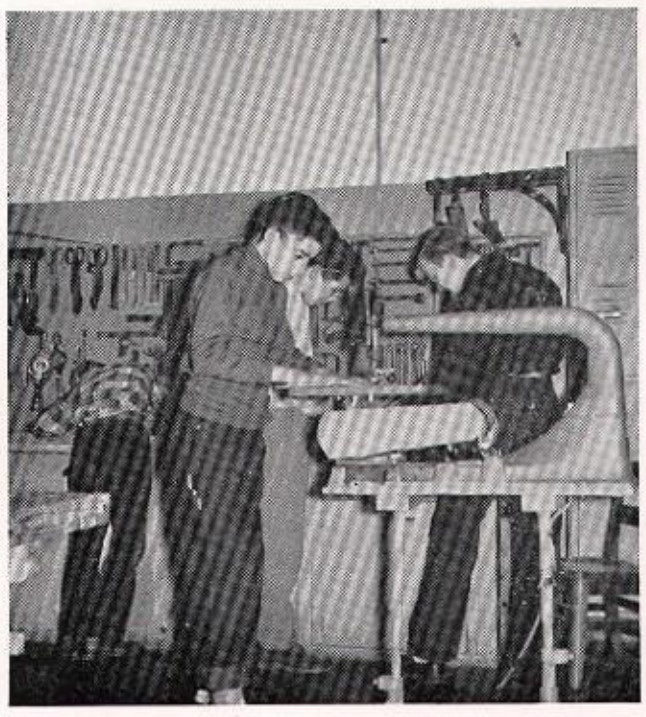


The technique of home nursing is one of the various useful projects learned in Miss Clarke's homemaking class.

In Mrs. McKinney's secretarial practice class, the girls are taught exactly how to keep a typewriter in good condition.



With the aid of Mr. Kane, an interested boy operates the motion picture machine for a special classroom movie.



While earnestly toiling over machines and tools in Mr. Porter's shop class, the boys learn and gain practical experience.

Knowing that "reading maketh a full man" some high school boys put the RHCS library to its best use

The seventh grade social studies classes display numerous Indian objects when they are studying that unit of the subject.

And Practice

Miss Tinker carefully instructs two of her many young musicians as to the most successful technique of trumpet playing.

In keeping with current topics and seasons, bulletin boards are very cleverly decorated in most of the homerooms.

Jovial janitors, Bruce Wallace and Elmer Ostrom, clean the cafeteria on a daily after-school tour throughout the building.

Joyously anticipating their return home, some young rural students, awaited by their drivers, run to board the school buses.

Miss Simoneit, cafeteria manager, attends to the efficient planning and ordering of meals to be served in the school lunchroom.

In the RHCS cafeteria kitchen Mrs. Clute, Mrs. Wallace, and Mrs. Eick prepare wholesome meals for the students and faculty.

Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Phillips also take the primary step toward preparing food for the incoming crowd.

During one of the lunch periods a student cafeteria worker serves healthful, well-balanced meals to ravenous students.

We're All Jolly Kids

. . . . who, knowing that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," put forth as much effort to make our recreation volatile as we do to make our toil serious!

WHAT'S THE NEWS OF THE DAY, I PRAY

Assistant Business Managers - BARBARA MCKINNEY, BETTY LOU MALLABER
Advisers - - - - - - MRS. MCKINNEY, MISS ST. JOHN, MISS SHULTS, MISS HILT, MISS WELIKES

Long ago, according to the nursery jingle, one had to ask, "What's the news of the day, I pray?" Fortunately in our age, RHCS students no longer have to resort to such an outmoded method for information, for they simply turn to "Echo" for authentic reports of "news of the day." Preparation of such a paper requires the work of many ambitious minds, so even at the last minute, club members are often frantically compiling, editing, and typing articles in order to meet their "deadline".

Another project of the group is "Scope", of which all RHCS students can be proud because last year the yearbook merited first prize in the Buffalo Evening News Contest for Western New York and rated exceptionally high in Columbia's National Contest. Annually the editorial staff strives for perfection and originality in copy, art work, and photography; therefore everyone must put forth his best efforts in contributing material for this publication.

Since the work of publishing "Echo" and "Scope" calls for unusual skill and specialized knowledge, the organization sends representatives to press conferences. So . . . when, "What is the best news of the day?" is asked in RHCS, students promptly answer, "The best news of all . . . "Scope" or "Echo" is ready for distribution!"

THIS IS THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

President - - - - - MARILYN STILLINGER
Vice-President - - - - - - MARY TRACEY
Secretary - - - - - - BARBARA BROWER
Treasurer - - - - - - MARY THAXTER
Lightmaster - - - - - WILLIAM ANNABLE
Adviser - - - - - - - MISS SHULTS

Believe it or not "this is the house that Jack built" as scenery for one of the year's dramatic presentations. Had you been able to see the set originally . . . adorned with hammers, saws, nails, cans of paint, and ladders . . . you'd be amazed to view the realism finally achieved for the night of the actual production!

Stagecrafters number twenty-five, largest membership the organization has ever known. These members, with Miss Shults, the new art instructor, worked diligently throughout the year to learn proper efficient methods of building appropriate alluring stage settings. The organization's first project in this school year was that of creating the background for the Senior Play, "The Inner Willy". As usual, all did not run smoothly throughout the process. In fact, thumbs were whacked, fists were stuck through "flats", and at least one paint pail was upset! Despite various calamities, however, the finished scenery was a praiseworthy sight. In December Stagecraft competently erected the set for the Christmas Cantata, "The Wondrous Story." Next on the agenda was the scenery for the Junior Play, which, owing to the previous experience of the workers, was constructed more easily. The final activity of the club was to help assemble decorations for the Spring Concert.

"The houses that Stagecrafters built" during the year have been realistic and attractive and have won a reputation for '48-'49 club members comparable to that earned by any of their predecessors!

OH, DEAR! WHAT CAN THE MATTER BE

President - - - - - - MADELINE REALE
Vice-President - - - - - - LORA SHAW
Secretary - - - - - - AUDREY PETERS
Advisers - - - MR. KANE, MR. MASTROLIO, MISS MCTARNAGHAN, MISS HETZLER

"Oh, dear, what can the matter be?" This is a familiar question to Student Council, an organization which assumes a large share in the management of the problems of school life in RHCS. Capable active representatives from the student body, therefore, are a "must" for this group. Each grade, seventh through twelfth, is represented by a boy and girl chosen in spring elections. Special members of the council are: a president and two faculty advisers, elected at the first annual session, a secretary who holds no voting privilege in the meetings and who is selected from the student body, and two advisers chosen by the administration. Members and representatives meet twice monthly to decide "what the matter can be" and to suggest remedies.

The reason why "Johnny's so long at the fair" is that there are many tasks with which the group deals. Some of these are: to make a calendar for extracurricular activities, to distribute an outline of eighth period activities, to approve money-making schemes, and to review constitutions of newly formed clubs. In addition, representatives alternate in introducing guest speakers at assemblies and this year the organization approved the revision of Dramatic Club's point system.

As a body the Student Council stands for effective democratic rule. Here the students prepare to become an integral part of the future voting public and earn for themselves the "blue ribbon that Johnny brought home from the fair!"

FIRE! FIRE! YELLED THE TOWN CRIER

Fire Chief - - - - - BENNIE WATKINS
Assistant Fire Chief - - WILLIAM MURPHY
Secretary-Treasurer - - - MARVIN BEDFORD
Advisers - - - - MR. WHITE, MR. COATES

"Fire! Fire! yelled the town crier!"

"Where? Where? Let's all go see," cried Fire Wardens of RHC.

Whenever boys of the Fire Warden's staff hear the fire bell ring, they assume their posts for duty. Their tasks include holding doors, forming lines, and emptying rooms. Or perhaps you may have observed them examining the fire extinguishers which must be given an annual inspection. After this they refill needy acid extinguishers and send the dry ice models to Buffalo for recharging so that they will be in readiness for immediate use should the necessity arise. At the close of school four boys, supervised by the chief, attend the loading of the buses. Another duty of the group is to give directions to students in passing to and from assembly and to arrange the seating of pupils for such gatherings. Occasionally they can be seen assisting in these measures at public affairs.

Members of the organization are elected at the first class meeting in September. Junior and senior classes each choose five members while other high school groups elect four boys capable of assuming these duties. It can be said with complete sincerity that the Fire Wardens play an important part in daily school life in RHCS. And although the boys may never have heard the town crier crying, "Fire! Fire!", they have the satisfaction of having given willingly of themselves for the benefit of others.

LAVENDER BLUE AND ROSEMARY GREEN

President - - - - - MARY THAXTER
Secretary-Treasurer - - MARILYN STILLINGER
Adviser - - - - - - MISS SCHULTS

'Mid splatters of "lavender blue and rosemary green" one finds enthusiastic Art Krafters with their paint and paper ready to transform fantastic dreams into realistic schemes.

To become a member of the Art Kraft Klub a student is required to pass two art courses after which he is given a written invitation to join the group. The Klub, one of the most interesting and valuable in the school, offers its members the opportunity of applying their artistic talents. During the school year '48-'49, these Art Klubbers worked unceasingly to make eye-catching posters for the advertising of the Senior Play and Senior Ball. Through their colorful placards, members of the organization also announced to the public the arrival of the Spring Concert. For Christmas they spent many long hours designing holy Yuletide paintings for the science and art room windows. Participants were rewarded for their faithful and arduous work by the praise they received. In addition, the Klub members worked diligently from time to time to make numerous posters for Book Week and to design art work for the "Scope" and "Echo". In June, as a culmination of the year's activities, they gathered for a gala party, a final celebration for the '48-'49 Art Krafters.

Now, users of "lavender blue and rosemary green" gradually fade into the background waiting for another year to call them once more to take up their palettes and go to work!

HOW DO YOU DO, NEIGHBOR

Vice-Chairman - - - - - JOSEPH SZALAY
Secretary - - - - - - DONALD MEAHL
Financial Secretary - - - - CLIFFORD LACEY
Advisers - - - MISS CLARKE, MISS HETZLER

"How do you do, neighbor?" When students in RHCS hear this question, you can rest assured that it's no idle query! Indeed, not!! Junior Red Cross Council has seen to this fact by making the student body of RHCS genuinely concerned over the welfare of their neighbors both at home and abroad.

Proof of the friendly spirit, stimulated and developed by members of the small group, was made evident by the generous responses to its appeals for CARE drives and the March of Dimes. And when the need for knitted afghans and for overseas boxes was mentioned, the council immediately received the aid of the homemaking department and the elementary grades. So much good did the "Red Crossers" accomplish that one and all were happy when the art department made an attractive window display to advertise the value of their work.

The aim of all Junior Red Cross organizations is, of course, to foster a spirit of brotherhood, a feeling of responsibility towards others. Everyone knows that the unit in RHCS has achieved this goal, for it has created a better understanding and a mutual friendship among ourselves and with other nations. Hence, students are proud of the fact that in this school, at least, "how do you do, neighbor?" is never a meaningless phrase because efforts of the Junior Red Cross Council have made all pupils more interested in "how others do!"

I'LL TELL YOU A STORY

President - - - - - - MADELINE REALE

Secretary-Treasurer - - - - - EILEEN KOCH

Adviser - - - - - - - MISS TRABER

"I'll tell you a story about Library Club and now my story's begun! Maid Marion Traber leads the way with many members to follow her sway."

The importance of this organization is obvious when one realizes that books can keep peace, cause war, influence social life, furnish entertainment, or help students with their studies. In the library there are many types of books: travel, biography, fiction, and several other kinds. To care for these and to render the library more attractive, members of the club perform numerous tasks. They make attractive bulletin boards, "read" the shelves, type catalogue cards, process books, and prepare overdue notices.

To make reading more appealing, the library recently acquired 393 new books to stimulate and entertain the mind. Two sets of encyclopedias and several other reference books have also been added to the shelves. Helping with these tasks and setting up new file systems were Miss Rayburn and Miss Scheerschmidt, student librarians from Geneseo State Teachers College. The club had already celebrated its annual initiation festivity when the cadets arrived, but at Christmas they entertained the group with a Yuletide party so before their departure they, in turn, were given a surprise party! Thus another year has come and gone – with plenty of work and plenty of fun – and with Library Club members still striving to bring fascinating, powerful books to the attention of RHCS students.

WILLY BOY, WILLY BOY, WHERE ARE YOU GOING

"Willy Boy, Willy Boy, where are you going?" Why, he's going to see Mr. Porter and the boys at the meeting of the Future Farmers of America!

These boys were off to a good start when they staged their first event of the season — the Harvest Show, a most successful affair. Soon after this project Charles Myers, State Poultry judging champion, represented our Future Farmers in the Eastern States Exhibition in Springfield, Massachusetts. Another reason why the club proved to be of interest and inspiration to all its members was due to the educational expeditions they made. First Mr. Porter arranged a marketing trip to Buffalo which was exciting as well as instructional for the boys. On this sight-seeing adventure they visited the Stock Yard, Food Terminal, Packing Plant, and Dairymen's League Plant. Next the members of the club attended the State Fair in Syracuse, the Farm and Home Week at Cornell University, the State Farmers' of America Convention in Medina, and the New York State Horticultural Show which this year was held in Rochester.

Such educational tours as these have proved so worth-while that several of the boys "will go if that they may" to Camp Oswogatchie at Long Road in the Adirondack Mountains this summer. There "they will go to the meadow to see them a-mowing. They're going to help them make hay!"

POLLY, PUT THE KETTLE ON

President - - - -	Elizabeth Antonucci
Vice-President - - - -	Dorothy Phillips
Secretary - - - - -	Mary Tracey
Treasurer - - - - - -	Ethel Eick
Advisers - -	Miss Clarke and Miss Farrell

"Polly, put the kettle on and we'll all have tea!" However, those who preferred "cokes" were satisfied, too, at the FHA "coke" party given in September to welcome incoming members. After this affair for the new recruits, the girls immediately went to work carrying out their many activities for the year.

"And we'll all go away," they said as they prepared to join other groups in meetings at Corfu and Barker. Following these gatherings, Miss Clarke and Miss Farrell accompanied delegates to the state meeting at Morrisville. During the year the FHA girls' cry of "popcorn! potato chips!!" echoed through the crowds at home football, basketball, and baseball games. The profits from this project were used to buy club pins. From time to time, the members enjoyed "get togethers" such as the Smorgasbord Supper in honor of the basketball teams. Other pleasant affairs were the banquet with the FFA boys and the Silver Tea for the girls' mothers. The club's activities were concluded by its annual picnic in June.

The Future Home Makers' organization, although it may be unfamiliar to many, has proved its popularity in RHCS by having fourteen members join the group during '48-'49. The end of FHA's creed, "We face the future with warm courage and high hope," might be an exemplary ideal for everyone. And now if "Susan will take the kettle off, we'll all go home" to practice the knowledge we have acquired.

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR

President - - - - - - WILLIAM MURPHY
Secretary - - - - - - - MARY SMITH
Treasurer - - - - - - GEORGE SINGER
Adviser - - - - - - - MR. WHITE

"Twinkle, twinkle little star! How I wonder what you are!" This rhyme might well have been written about Science Club whose members are ever making observations regarding "the diamonds in the sky."

The organization, under the direction and supervision of Mr. White, is separated into three divisions: the laboratory assistants, the automotive group, and the camera club. The lab assistants help to keep that room in order and to prepare it for chemistry class. The camera club meets once each week for instruction in using the camera, in developing films, and in printing pictures. The automotive class studies the engine of the automobile and its operation. Because they are trying to find the origin of the "little light that shines when the blazing sun is gone", members of all three of these science groups conduct many experiments and see many movies. While "peeping through their curtains into the dark blue sky," they found one movie entitled, "Unfinished Rainbows," which they felt might enable others to determine the origin of "these crystal clear objects" therefore they made it possible for the entire student body to view the film in an assembly program.

Members of the club "thank the traveler in the dark for its tiny spark" which led the students' way into the night to broaden their knowledge of the mysterious stars "twinkling like diamonds." So now, "little star, we know just what you are!"

A MAN OF WORDS AND NOT OF DEEDS

President	James Muscarella
Vice-President	Marie Ruppel
Secretary	Rita Willett
Treasurer	Donna Knapp
Advisers	Miss St. John, Miss Hilt

"A man of words and not of deeds is like a garden full of weeds". With this thought in mind Dramatic Club, under the guidance of Miss St. John and Miss Hilt, attempts to develop the Thespian talents of its members.

Each year Dramatic Club, together with the American Legion, sponsors a public speaking contest which any student, from freshmen to seniors, gifted with "words" or who would like to develop self-confidence as a speaker, may enter. Much time is given by each contestant in memorizing and rehearsing his chosen speech. He is rewarded, though, not only by monetary prizes, but also by the valuable experience he gains. The most important work of the club, however, is applying make-up to young actors and actresses in school plays. Certain meetings each year are devoted to demonstration and practice of this difficult art. At the junior and senior plays members have their greatest opportunity to put their knowledge to work. At other meetings one act plays are presented for the entertainment of the entire dramatic group.

This year Dramatic Club reorganized its point system so that it is now similar to that of the National Thespian Society. The change will enable more members to accumulate the required number of points necessary for earning the coveted club pin which will serve to prove that their proud owners are "men of deeds and not of words".

TOM, TOM, THE PIPER'S SON

"Tom, Tom, the piper's son, learned to play when he was young" as did members of the RHCS Senior Band led by Miss Tinker. "They, with their pipes, made such a noise that they pleased both girls and boys" who heard them eighth period Tuesday, Thursday, or Friday when the band practices.

The instrumentalists also brought enjoyment to their audiences during July and August when they kept in practice and won recognition for RHCS by marching in field days with the Middleport Firemen and in parades in neighboring communities. Highlights of the summer, however, were participating in the Niagara County Fair, winning an award for "most in line" at Hartland, and earning second place in Medina. During the school year, though, the young musicians "turned the tables" on the students and had them marching to the strains of "On Wisconsin" and "Washington Post March" as they hurried to football games or assemblies. The band also performed for the Senior Play and the annual Spring Concert. Members of the group made several trips in '48-'49 . . . . Jean Meahl, Alan Brewer, and Virginia Brown went to the Western New York State School Music Association. Jean Meahl visited the Sectional Aid State Clinics in Rochester and the entire unit attended the Amherst Music Festival.

And so successful was the year that when "band members with their instruments did play with such skill, those who heard them could never keep still!"

"I sing, I sing from morn 'til night", goes the nursery rhyme and how true this is of members of Girls' Glee Club!

With an all-time record membership of seventy, these songsters convened twice weekly to blend their voices in harmony under the baton of their capable new director. From these meetings the girls derived pleasure and satisfaction, for not only were they having fun singing together, but also were they attempting to prepare themselves to give enjoyment to others. They proved how successful they were in this aim when they made their first public appearance with the Christmas Contata, "The Wondrous Story." The girls presented this program so well that it was easy for the audience to believe that they really had practiced "from morn 'til night". About this same time two delegates from the large group were sent to participate in the Lancaster Music Festival. May, of course, heralded the club's next major event, the Spring Concert. The climax of the year's work, however, came when the organization attended the Music Festival at Amherst. For this gathering the Glee Club had prepared "Danny Boy" and "The Green Cathedral".

With this ambitious program for their year's work, it is easy to see why these girls who "sang from morn 'til night from cares were free and their hearts were light."

JACK BE NIMBLE, JACK BE QUICK

Captain - - - - - - - BILL ANNABLE

Manager - - - - - - CLIFFORD LACEY

Coach - - - - - - - MR. COATES

"Jack be nimble! Jack be quick!" These words comprise a familiar nursery rhyme; but one can't imagine just what it's doing here! Wait a minute!! Are there ten fellows clad in purple satin warm-up suits streaming across the floor? Why, of course!!! And they are the Varsity Royals . . . . . Now the meaning of the old adage is easily understood, for certainly "the boys from Royalton" are about as "nimble and quick" as any person could possibly imagine.

This year's club had a large assignment to replace the vacated positions of last season's Class B Champs. The '48-'49 first string led by Captain Bill Annable, sported two Freshmen, a Sophomore, and a Junior. These men, backed by five other capable players, carried out a very successful cage season. Recovering from a slow start, the Purple and White rallied for three victories giving them a total of three wins and three losses at the end of the first round of play. The Royals again suffered a set-back as play resumed for the last half of the tournament. Climax after climax, however, occurred to make this second term of the league battle thrilling to the very end.

And as the '48-'49 season passed into history, one again remembered the appropriate rhyme "Jack be nimble, Jack be quick." These words caused every true fan to remember the thrills and heartbreaks that compose a typical basketball season at RHCS.

JOHN BALL SHOT THEM ALL

Captain - - - - - - RICHARD RYBACKI
Manager - - - - - - BLASE NICOLIA
Coach - - - - - - MR. MASTROLIO

"John Ball shot them all", Mr. Mastrolio said, "but none of you are 'John Balls' so pass that ball around." Carefully heeding this advice, the Junior Varsity completed a successful and admirable season to win top honors among the junior varsities of the Niagara-Orleans tournament.

Grim determination plus respect for constructive criticism were important factors which reaped the fruits of victory for these boys. Refusing, however, to waste time basking in the rays of their several victories, the local hoopsters painstakingly analyzed their defeats in order to correct their faults. Although some of the tilts were easy victories for them, most of their games developed into furious clashes which required full co-operation from each player. Seven new and youthful aspirants complimented the five veterans to form the '48-'49 season's squad and rapidly proved themselves to be important assets to the team. Quick to learn co-ordination between mind and muscle, these new recruits soon dropped their "green look" and entered the spirit of the game. Besides competing in twelve league games, the J. V.'s gained experience and seasoned themselves for trials to come through practice games with Albion and Medina.

'Mid boisterous cheers in the final seconds of their last crucial battle with Newfane, veteran spectators agreed that by disregarding the "John Ball shot them all" slogan, this year's Junior Varsity members had a brilliant season and well displayed their ability as cage stars.

SOME UP! SOME DOWN!

Captain - - - - - - BENNIE WATKINS

Manager - - - - - - JAMES MUSCARELLA

Coach - - - - - - - MR. COATES

"Some up! some down!" Keeping pace with the enthusiasm of the football fans, the gridiron Royals of '48-'49 completed the most successful season in the history of RHCS. A combination of grueling hours of practice, endless physical punishment, undying team spirit, and the coaching talents of Mr. Coates were the factors which whipped our team into shape, making it a unit comparable to any in the circuit.

Operating from single and double wing formations, a diversified aerial and running offense was established. The "forward wall" averaged one hundred and ninety pounds and was backed by an assortment of fast, shifty runners who made the Royals a threat to any squad's record. Wilson, power-house of the league, was the only outfit to outclass our boys. But our fellows used such splendid defense on a rain-soaked field, that even the "Lakesiders" were held scoreless in the second half although they had smashed through for thirty-six points in the first stanza. So the local unit finished third in league competition with two wins, one tie, and three losses making the purple and white sextet feel that it had had a fairly enjoyable season.

"Some up! some down!" Thus goes the ever-changing personnel of a team. As some step down from their playing careers, others are on hand to fill the vacancies and with several "lettermen" returning next year, Coach Coates has the hope of leading a victorious fall squad in '49.

TRIP AND GO, HEAVE AND HO

President - - - - - - - LORA SHAW

"Trip and go, heave and ho, up and down, to and fro . . . . From the classroom to the gym, two by two, let all members of Girls' Sports Club go." Thus into the gym flock the girls to participate in the competitive games that are offered to members of this organization.

To join Girls' Sports Club a girl must have earned ten credits through taking part in the intramural program which consists of volleyball, basketball, badminton, and softball. To retain her membership she must earn a total of thirty credits each year. This year, for the first time, Mrs. Bridge was able to make awards early in November to five senior girls who had tallied the coveted number of points. During the year members of the athletic club were hostesses for an exchange volleyball game when a group of girls from Medina came here to compete with a team of RHCS girls. Members of the organization have also engaged in several basketball contests with teams from neighboring schools. Another important project the girls carried out was to present members of the football squad with boxes of homemade candy at a special assembly after the football season in November.

It is evident, then, that the aim of Girls' Sports Club is to encourage co-operation and leadership among its members; so "with a heave and a ho, to and fro" they can always be found working in perfect harmony. —Patricia Reese
